

1. Russian scientific conference with international participation "Current aspects of modern psychophysiology", August, every year.

The collection of scientific papers will cover issues related to psychological aspects of modern psychophysiology; physiological aspects of modern psychophysiology; medical aspects of modern psychophysiology; pedagogical aspects of modern psychophysiology; social aspects of modern psychophysiology; philosophical aspects of modern psychophysiology; psychophysiology of creative activity.

The conference organizers reserve the right to edit articles and messages, as well as the right to refuse publication if the topic does not correspond to the declared topic of the conference.

Design requirements: text format: Word for Windows. Page format: A4 (210×297 mm). All fields are 20 mm. Font: size (pin) 12; type Times New Roman. Single line spacing. The indent of the first line is 1.27. The volume of the article is up to 3 pages. The title of the article is printed in the center in capital letters, in bold. Below in lower case letters with alignment on the right edge followed by the initials and surname of the author (italic, bold). On the next line, the country and city (italics, bold), institution, and contact information. Next, an abstract in English (up to 200 characters) is followed by an interval with equal width, and again, the text of the article, in which drawings or diagrams are not allowed, is followed by an interval. Tables are allowed (font 11). After the text of the article, there can be a list of references. References to literary sources are in-text, for example, [6] or [6, p. 3].

The working languages of the conference are Russian and English.

Documents are accepted by email NP-NPC-PCN2008@yandex.ru or npcpcn@gmail.com

When receiving materials for publication and an application for participation, the organizing Committee of the conference sends a confirmation of receipt and acceptance of the work within four working days. After that, you must send a scanned copy of the payment receipt.

2. International scientific conference "Psychophysiology of the XXI century", dedicated to the memory of E. p. Ilyin, March annually (published in the journal of VAK), March, every year

Only doctors of science and candidates of science working in various fields of psychophysiology can participate in the conference.

Texts for publications are accepted until March 30.

The collection of scientific papers will cover issues related to the psychological aspects of modern psychophysiology; physiological aspects of modern psychophysiology; medical aspects of modern psychophysiology; pedagogical aspects of modern psychophysiology; social aspects of modern psychophysiology; philosophical aspects of modern psychophysiology; psychophysiology of creative activity.

Design requirements: abstracts in English only, text format: Word for Windows. Page format: A4 (210×297 mm). All fields are 20 mm. Font: size (pin) 12; type Times New Roman. Single line spacing. The indent of the first line is 1.27. The volume of the article is up to 3 pages. The title of the article is printed in the center in capital letters, in bold. Below in lower case letters with alignment on the right edge followed by the initials and surname of the author (italic, bold). On the next line, the country and city (italics, bold), institution, and contact information. Next, an abstract in English (up to 200 characters) is followed by an interval with equal width, and again, the text of the article, in which drawings or diagrams are not allowed, is followed by an interval. Tables are allowed (font 11). After the text of the article, there can be a list of references. References to literary sources are in-text, for example, [6] or [6, p. 3].

The working language of the conference is English. Documents are accepted by email NP-NPC-PCN2008@yandex.ru or npcpcn@gmail.com

If you receive materials for publication and an application for participation within four working days, the organizing Committee of the conference will send a confirmation of receipt of the work.

PARTICIPATION IN THE CONFERENCE IS FREE OF CHARGE.

Condition of participation:

1. Only candidates of science and doctors of science (it is necessary to send a scanned diploma of awarding a scientific degree);
2. Only research practical applied and fundamental works;
3. No more than two co-authors;
4. The review of the submitted text takes place in the conference organizing Committee;
5. Publication in the second issue of the international scientific journal "Bulletin of psychophysiology»;
6. A certificate of participation signed by two members of the expert Council of the international scientific journal is issued.

Registration form

1. FCS
2. Academic degree, academic title,
3. Organization
4. The title of the thesis
5. Contacts